- My cell phone number
- My home address
- My profile name, e-mail, IM, and/or Twitter addresses
- My debit card, bank account, or my credit card number
How would you share your personal material?

- About my interests and activities
- Discloses personal difficulties I am having
- Could make people think I make bad choices
- Something I want to be kept private
- A nude or semi-nude sexy image of me
- A threat to hurt someone
How would you share information about others?

- Their personal contact information
- About their interests and activities
- Discloses personal difficulties they are having
- Could make people think they make bad choices
- Something they want to be kept private
- A nude or semi-nude image of this person
If you saw a friend had posted an image or information that was likely to damage your friend’s reputation or could cause other trouble, how would you explain the need to immediately remove this material?

They wouldn't want the same done to them.
it could hurt the other persons feelings if you dont take it down
That they might not want to keep that up because it could damage you in the future.
it could ruin his/her future
I would say that this can make people think wrongly of you and may damage you're post-high school life including college and jobs
By saying it could get you in trouble!
I would say that the material is offensive in some way and that there are consequences if tell them to take it off
You should probably take that off. There are websites where people take pictures of that I would explain that this is a bad idea and you will regret it
Explain what it looks like
Take that off now
It could hurt them in the long run
It's not smart and could seriously backfire. It's not worth it.

Take it off now

I would tell my friend that it was wrong and if you don't remove it than I will report it to an adult.

Someone I know has posted some personal information I think you should tell them something.

Dude, if your boss sees this, you could get fired, it's happened before. And what if your mom decides to look you up and finds that? You really want people to search you and this is what they find?!

dude, what your doin is stupid, stop it.

take it off

You need to take that down.

Disgusted

i would explain and share my knowledge of the possible repercussions of her actions, and that Come on, you look like a <>.. What will the whole school think about you and your family and friends?

Just tell them to remove it. If they think I'm their friend they'll listen.

The image or information could endanger them since there are sexual predators, and other people.

Think about if this will affect you in a positive or negative way it would hurt the other persons feelings

I would tell them if it was them they would want it removed

I would tell him or her that the picture or information is inappropriate and they should take it down i would say what can be the possible outcomes.

imagine if this image gets to your kids, years from now. how are you going to explain this to them

I would explain and ask them how they would feel if it was their information being put out there

This may not seem like a big deal to you right now, but this could really hurt you in the near future.

I wouldn't. thats their choice

remove it thats stupid
It can ruin your life.

show it to them
I would say that the other person may not want that image online and how it could dramatically morph their reputation negatively.
The risk isn't worth a funny tweet or a lot of likes on a picture. You could seriously get in trouble.
They need to make their own mistakes. People don't listen, they just learn.
tell them the short and long term effects
I would just tell them what I personally thought and it would be up to them whether or not to take it down.
I would tell them that once it's on the internet it can never be deleted.
I would say, "This material could potentially ruin your entire future, do not let one mistake
It will ruin your reputation
You need to get that off the internet like now or your life could be ruined. What about your
Do you want the entire world, including your family and teachers to see it?
that it stays on the internet forever and could severely damage their future
I would tell them that I would not post that therefore neither should they.
I would just contact them any way I could, as fast as I could, tell them that what they posted
It's his/her information and it should be kept private unless told otherwise.
It depends on who it is.
this is not your information which doesn't give you the right to post it
That was mean and wrong and you should really take it off, even if you didn't mean it that Depends on the person, how close we are. If very, just tell them it's not a good idea.
By just telling them that they need to take it down now.
I would say think about how this could affect you later on in life. Like a nude or semi-nude
It could damage their reputation, personal image, and future.
hey, you have the first amendment and can post what you want. however, this could wind
